

Vote Bloom and Speakman on 15th November

Godfrey: "My record shows that I stand up for you in the EU, I promise to do that with crime"

Mike: "As a former bobby on the beat and deputy chief constable, I know policing, I understand the men and women that want to make our streets safe. Don't leave it to the politicians"

UKIP - the party of real law and order

Godfrey Bloom MEP
supported by Mike Speakman, former Deputy Chief Constable
for Humberside

Your Police and Crime Commissioner team for Humberside

What we stand for:

- End to early release sentences – life means life
- Stop the revolving door of soft sentencing with repeat offenders kept locked up
- Abolish the Human Rights Act
- Quick deportation of criminal immigrants
- No votes for prisoners

Don't let the soft-on-crime parties police us:

- Don't let the Tories sell off the police and cut frontline policing
- Labour failed a generation with political correctness and undermined policing

The remit for Police Commissioner at the time of writing is very vague. The role is new to the UK, but not of course to the US, where the idea originated. There is therefore much to be learned.

Godfrey Bloom, UKIP's MEP for Yorkshire & North Lincolnshire:

Humberside Police have been almost completely turned around since the dark days of 2005. I know because I have lived in the area for 30 years and have seen the improvements. This has been due to an excellent management team, working with a particularly sound Police Authority. For far too long policing has been a political football, full of political correctness rather than about catching criminals. We have had good policing in Humberside.

Yet a Police Force is no different to an Army Division, warship or Plc. It is an organic and dynamic being. It can go backwards as easily as forwards, especially with some savage budgetary cuts pending. The Conservatives were perceived as the party of law and order. No longer. With Cameron, Ken Clarke and Clegg, we are seeing the continuation of policies that are failing and deep cuts that will erode police effectiveness.

The role is ill suited to the professional long term journeyman politician. Experience of the wider world is called for. I offer that with my proposed team, see opposite for details of my running mate Mike Speakman and of course 8 years political experience in that lunatic asylum the European 'Parliament'.

Policing by common sense and consensus

Mike and I have seen policing being used as a political football, and driven by ideology rather than common sense. When this happens the public lose confidence.

Police budget and privatisation

My team experience is unmatched by any of the other runners. But Humberside Police cannot work in a vacuum. I will use the appointment to campaign for sentencing reform: habitual and perpetual criminals must stay locked up. We have to stop the revolving open door of soft sentencing.

Not a career politician

I am not a career politician - it is they who have weakened law, order and the police role in the last 20 years, they are not to be trusted. I went into politics very reluctantly as I saw the damage the EU was doing to our economy, our freedom and its total lack of democratic accountability. I have proved that I can fight for the UK in Brussels and I ask that you elect me to do that for policing; standing up for the victim, not the aggressor.

Commercial experience

I have very significant commercial experience, 35 years in financial services in senior management roles. I am used to budgets, strategy and managing teams.

Effective policing needs strong management

Army Career

I also spent thirty years in the Territorial Army, fifteen of them in Hull, my most important role being Logistic Liaison Officer to 4th Armoured Division. In short, I am used to working with men and women in uniform who are often light on resources and political support, and of course I pledge to use the role as a platform to press for government review of sentencing policy.

Mike Speakman:

"I joined the Police in Liverpool in 1968 and started life as a bobby on foot patrol in Liverpool 8, later to become known as Toxteth.

At that time traditional policing was still strong and beat bobbies were expected to work their beat every day and be there for at least two years. This is where I learned my craft and I took the lessons with me throughout my service.

I held a number of posts in Merseyside and was also seconded to the Home Office for a project to reduce bureaucracy and keep policeman on the streets. I eventually transferred to Humberside Police in 1995 as Assistant Chief Constable Operations. I rose to Deputy Chief Constable before retiring in 2000. Since then I worked as an advisor to Abu Dhabi police helping them to start community policing and implement a strategic plan.

I am proud to support Godfrey Bloom in his bid to become Police and Crime Commissioner. He values the traditional style of policing, as do I. Between us we have a wealth of experience in policing, business and the military and we can make things better for the people of Humberside. UKIP's values of plain speaking and common sense are what is needed in today's climate of political correctness and political spin."

Godfrey and Mike's promise to you:

We are the only team unhampered by government. We are the only team standing in this election that have the combined experience in politics and policing necessary to make a difference to Humberside.

Godfrey Bloom: This is a difficult role in uncharted waters. I invoke the Hippocratic oath to anyone who wins: 'First do no harm'.
